ATHLETICS

Victory is probably the greatest fallacy of football. People more often than not consider a winning season as the primary reason for playing the game. In so doing, they tend to overlook the essence of this type of contest.

As is true of all sports, a desire to win permeates the competitive ranks. One, however, tends to forget that there are many facets of victory. To be able to play a losing game with a whole-hearted effort is, in itself, an astounding accomplishment. If one can walk off a ball field after eating dirt and still say that he did his best, then he has achieved more through defeat than what might have been attained from a victorious tally and a lesser effort. In other words, an unyielding perseverance has brought this aspiring young adult that much closer to manhood.

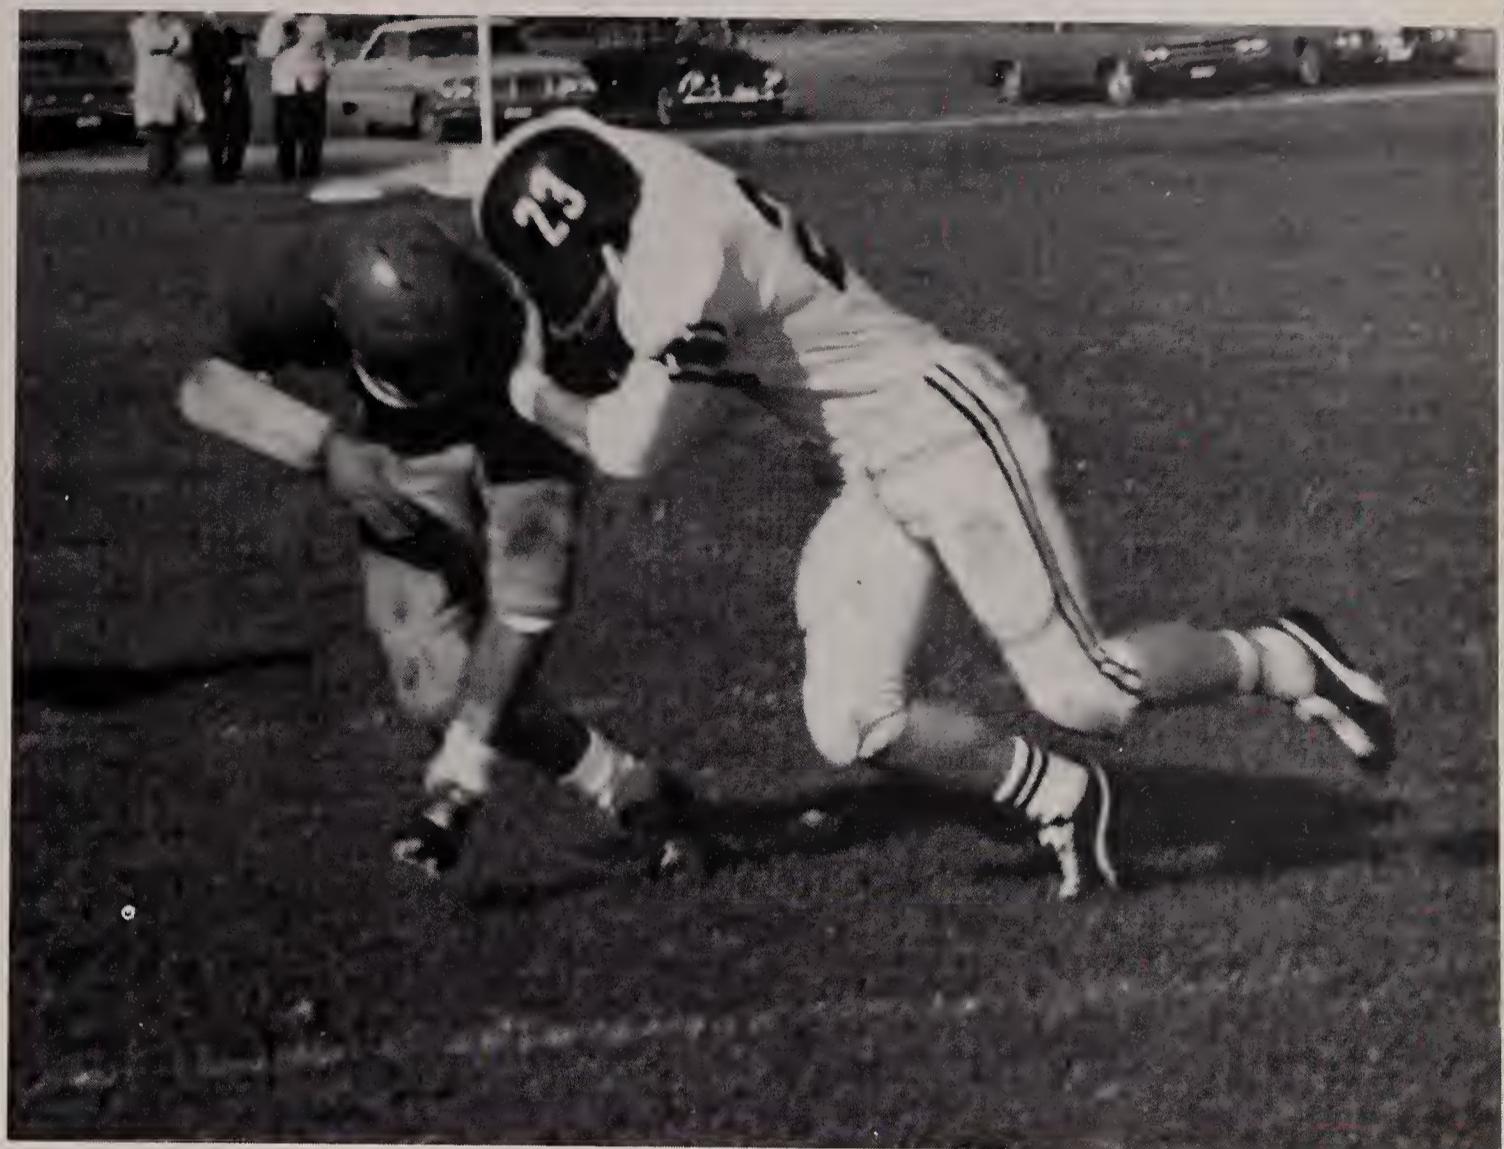

Football is a game of black eyes, bruises, and pure guts. Just wanting to roll up a score is not enough in this game. Day after day, you strive to maintain your academic position, while night after night you struggle up on the heights. Constant knocking of heads shatters the silence of those somber autumn afternoons. Blood, sweat, and tears are shed throughout the season and one asks why. The answer is simple. Love for the game is the inspiration and basis of participation. It is an affection which is seldom noticed or appreciated.

All of which leads to the question of what is most damaging to this love. One must look to the student body for the answer. Habitual apathy is the damaging factor. One becomes discouraged when those who should care do not. How disheartening it is for the footballer of Assumption to play for his school in front of an empty gallery. To paraphrase a slogan: support your team and let them know you care.

In conclusion, to play football is to love the game. One learns that it is better to fight and lose than win and not try. The game contributes to the making of a staunch young man from a wavering boy. As a final note, Coaches Raymond and Foley are a credit to the Assumption spirit.

ATHLETICS

CROSS COUNTRY

This fall presented Assumption with the best cross-country season it has ever had, ending with a fine seven-win, two-loss record.

The season opened on a flat note with Assumption losing a close match to Lawrence Academy, due mainly to the former's lack of depth. The Monks easily won their next two dual meets over Sacred Heart and Holy Name; then, though almost every Assumption runner without exception turned in his best time, the Monks lost their next meet to a powerful Worcester Academy team paced by the record-breaking run of a post-graduate, Mike Kelly. The harriers had their most glorious day when they were next able to split the team and go on to win decisively two separate contests over Saint Andrews and Thayer Academy. Assumption next hosted a tri-meet with Marianopolis and Webster Academy from which our runners again emerged victorious. The Monks ended the 1967 campaign on a very bright note with a clean sweep over Winchendon.

Though the prospects for the season had looked dull, Coach Bob Cormier was once again able to shape the team into one of the best in New England. It was through his drive and unrelenting will to win that the Monks caught the spirit that placed them well on their way to becoming a tradition at the school, and gave them such a successful year.

Assumption entered the following runners in highly competitive meets. Their placements in the respective meets were as follows: co-captain John Lamont 8th and co-captain Lawrence Desmarais 17th out of 550 runners in the Knights of Columbus Road Race; Lamont 6th and Desmarais 11th out of 150 varsity contestants, and sophomore Joseph May 3rd in the junior varsity race at Our Lady of Providence Invitational; Lamont 8th and Desmarais 25th out of 150 contestants in the New England Prep School Championships held at Williston Academy. The new Assumption course record is held by Mike Kelly of Worcester Academy (11:55), and the school record by captain John Lamont (12:07).

The outstanding award winners for Assumption cross-country during the 1967 season were: Coaches Award: Lawrence Desmarais; Most Valuable Player: John Lamont. Initiated into the ranks of the 1000 Mile Club was "Beep" Desmarais.

SOCCE

For most schools it takes time and experience to develop a winning team in a new sport. For Assumption, it took the perseverance and positive outlook of Coach Bazzano along with the patience and understanding of our Director of Athletics, Mr. Bibaud.

The team was led to a 4-2-1 season by co-captains Tim Mackin and Dave Granger. The Most Valuable Player award went to goalie Phil Descheneaux. Leading scorers on the team were Burt Vigil and Nicki Florescu with Charlie Sullivan and Tim Mackin heading the defense. The main ingredient for victory, however, was the team spirit which helped the group function as a unit.

In its initial season as a varsity sport, soccer got off to a running start. The team was somewhat hindered by two defeats by Webster Academy and Providence Country Day School. However, Assumption went on to defeat Winchendon, New Prep (twice), and Holy Name. An official match against Nichols College junior varsity resulted in the only tie game of the season.

With its first season ending victoriously, soccer is expecting even better teams in the future. Now that soccer has established itself as a varsity sport and has progressed so considerably towards the full achievement of its goals, it is ready to move on to still greater heights in the years to come.

ATHLETICS

BASKETBALL

The 1967-68 Monks have lived up to everyone's expectations: a team full of fight and spirit. They have proved to be an exciting outfit to watch. Led by Mariano Santiago, the Monks edged out Providence Country Day in the season opener by a count of 70-52. Roxbury Latin gave the Monks a scare before bowing out 57-56, thanks to Bob (Jonesy) Jones' 30-footer with ten seconds to go.

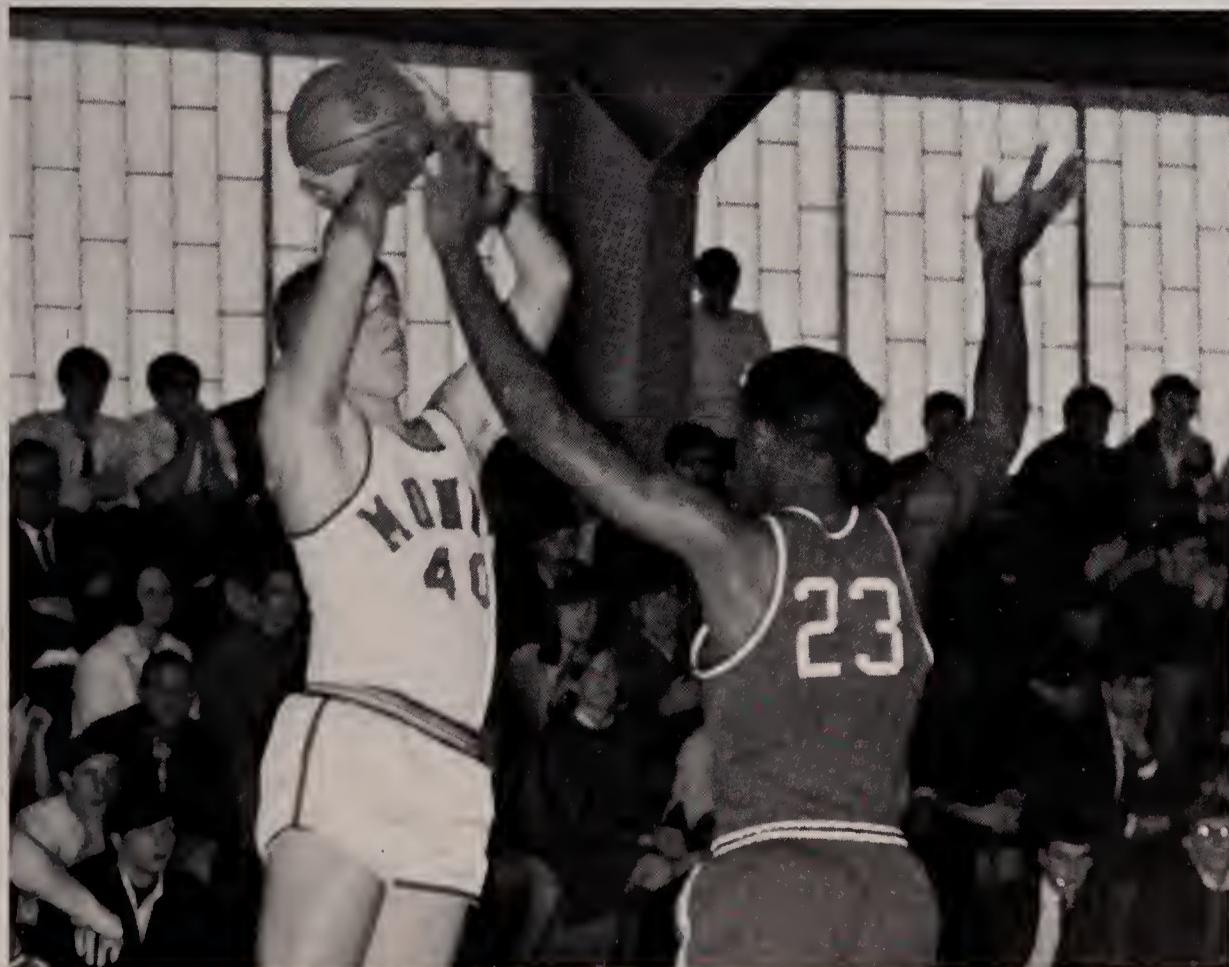

The Kingswood Tournament brought the Monks success and defeat. They edged out Wilbraham—a strong team—by four points, 58-54. Mariano Santiago's defense and a late scoring spree by Phil Descheneaux highlighted the win. The next two tournament games found the Monks on the losing side. Kingswood won easily 87-62, then Choate 84-70. After the holiday break, a "new look" Monks came back. Disregarding their famed zone, the team used a man-to-man technique. The new defense clicked as the team won the next three games: Assumption 84, New Prep 70; a tight contest but a win over Winchendon, 57-47; and a rough and tumble fight with Thompson but still victorious, 60-56. Then suddenly, their luck changed. The Monks lost two close games. Again Kingswood won 62-57 in a contest where Steve Warner played a magnificent defensive game against Kingswood's Jim Masket. Huntington then edged the Monks in Boston by 80-78. Phil Descheneaux's 23 and Bob Jones' 17 points weren't enough to win. Then the team travelled to the Cape to top previously undefeated Tabor 51-47. A complete team effort followed in the Choate game; but a last second basket for Choate pulled it out at 66-65.

The Monks then faced the most crucial part of the season. The remaining games would determine whether the team would enter the New England Tournament for the third consecutive time. The team has won this tournament for the two previous years and 1968's group wanted another title. The Monks had started this "crucial season" without their captain, Mariano Santiago, who, due to an attack of appendicitis, was lost for the remainder of the season.

They had won two important games over St. Andrews and Hopkins Grammar. Powerful Cheshire, potent Cushing, Wilbraham, New Hampton and Pomfret remained. All were Class A Teams, except Wilbraham. The rest of the way would prove to be a challenge. The coach, Mr. Bibaud, and the team were ready. Bob Jones, Steve and Bobby Warner, Phil Descheneaux, and Mark Cragan were set to go. The reserves were ready. A trip to the New England Tournament would depend on the outcome of this series of second season games.

ATHLETICS

SKIING

Skiing, a great sport, has for the last ten years become an increasingly popular prep school activity. Here at Assumption, the ski team was formed for students who like to ski competitively. There is no moderator for the team, and the members practice on their own at Ward Hill and Wachusett. They compete in slalom, giant slalom, and downhill races against Worcester Academy and other schools in the vicinity of Worcester. There are some very good skiers on the team; last year's record was six wins and no losses. Although Massachusetts' climate does not lend itself very well to this sport, the team tries to get together and enjoy this beneficial sport as often as weather permits. This year, the ski team has met on an informal basis, but there are hopes that the team will become progressively better organized in the near future and that it will be able to meet stiff competition on a year to year basis.

ORGANIZATIONS

STUDENT-FACULTY SENATE

The Student-Faculty Senate is a forum designed to promote a better school spirit and an improved living relationship among the students, the instructors and the administrators. To achieve these goals, the Senate consists of members of all three groups who talk over pertinent situations in the school. Weekly meetings, which are open to the school population, provide a stimulus for discussion among all concerned members of the school. In addition, the open forum meetings allow all those present to voice their opinions.

Also affiliated with the Senate are numerous subcommittees which delve deeply into particular areas of concern to the school community. Included are an Executive Committee, a Handbook Committee, a Personal Appearance Committee, and most importantly, a Social Committee. It is this committee which plans, organizes and runs all of the varied social events at school.

Although still in its infancy, the Senate and its subcommittees are showing great promise. Stressing dialogue and suggestions rather than legislation, as well as greater participation seem to be the keys to more fruitful results. Already it has opened new doors of mutual trust and confidence. Moreover, many suggestions are now being incorporated and many more are being considered for next year to help make school life more enjoyable and more meaningful.

The present success is an indication of future greatness. The possibilities seem infinite. The road, however, will not be easy. Enthusiasm, hard work, and dialogue will be necessary, but they will undoubtedly bring this potential into the realm of reality.

MEMINI

The aim of the Memini is, of course, to speak of a year. Yet the Memini cannot be called sheer history, for it is not based entirely on fact. This yearbook attempts to mirror a mood, to realize an attitude. The people and the events of this year seem to have reflected a questioning of tradition, and the editors and their staff have attempted a perceptive and honest inquiry into the attitudes of these people and the inevitability of these events. Realizing fully that a publication of this sort does not necessarily change much in the ultimate scheme of things, the literary staff has persisted in maintaining an atmosphere of seriousness hoping to create a minimum of literary pretentiousness so often found in student publications.

ORGANIZATIONS

The 1968 Memini is structurally dissimilar from recent tradition-bound yearbooks. The thematic opening, correlating verbal images with meaningful photography is undoubtedly the pride of our publication. Although the absence of biographies in the senior portrait section caused a slight controversy, the editors and staff all agree that this move was in the best interest of the book since this innovation yielded an increase of space in which we could more meaningfully represent the year. As a result, the 1968 Memini is more than thirty pages longer than any previous edition. More important, however, is the hope that by depicting the atmosphere of the school accurately we have caused the quality of this publication to outweigh in importance the added number of pages.

PRESS CLUB

The Press Club publishes a newspaper called the Heritage; of course, this newspaper must show the results of efforts to attain certain strived-for ideals. The student population likes to think that the Press Club is charged with the numerous responsibilities of recording and reflecting in the Heritage that which is of importance and of interest to the society the newspaper serves. Its prime task is that of reporting, clearly and concisely, happenings in contemporary society. Also, it must evaluate and consolidate these current events through just editorials. Feature articles, as well as regular columns, provide added dimension and interest. Ultimately, our newspaper should present material which is real and pertinent to its audience.

The paper includes several kinds of articles: features, news articles, and editorials. Its topics range from changes in the school administration to the question of the "draft," and from reviews of the "Moby Grape" to critiques of books of national interest. Because it tries to maintain a diversity in the subject of its articles, the Press Club necessarily must have a large staff. Therefore, it is opened to any student who wishes to write for the Heritage and should ideally give its members the chance to experience firsthand the many challenges of journalism.

Because of the revamping of the staff and because of the high costs of printing, the Press Club failed to publish an edition of the Heritage until January of the school year. This, of course, was unfortunate. However, under the joint editorship of John DeVries and Robert Fournier, the club once again began moving towards its ideals during the second half of the school year. Since it has emerged from its brief period of instability, the Press Club is again publishing the Heritage in the true spirit of journalism.

CONSIDER

Consider has grown out of the need for a more meaningful communication between students—those of Notre Dame Academy and Assumption Prep in particular. Consider offers an opportunity to go beyond superficial news and express our feelings, experiences, and thoughts as persons who are really becoming aware of what it means to be alive. Each of us possesses a wealth of experience which has moulded and formed our opinions, attitudes, impressions, thought patterns, outlook, ideas, values, and goals. If we didn't hoard this wealth and weren't contented only with what we ourselves could gather, we could give to and learn so much from each other.

This sharing of ideas is what our magazine, the students' magazine, can help us to accomplish. It exists in order to enable us to improve the means of communication; communication draws people together. It unites them, for unity is obviously lacking within our society today.

The scope of the articles can range from the inner dimensions of our lives to our contact with the issues of the day. The one common factor will be the personal approach and style which assures a rich variety of views.

Consider exists for our benefits. If we want to share and communicate our ideas and unite our generation, then we should "consider" this magazine as a means of bringing about these objectives.

CULTURE CLUB

Moderated by Mr. Michael Tronic, the Culture Club provides a selected group of students with background in literature and the Fine Arts not immediately available in the classroom. Weekly discussions are supplemented by trips to concerts, museums, plays, and films in Worcester and Boston. However, with the recent increase in on-campus cultural life centered in Hebert Auditorium, trips outside Worcester have become less frequent this year, with the exception of occasional Saturday evening visits to Boston to hear the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The Culture Club was started last year by a group of students attracted to the Fine Arts and interested in pursuing an extracurricular cultural program. Some of the more memorable events were plays seen at the Fenwick Theater at Holy Cross College, and the trips to Boston, one of the most inspiring being our visit to Boston's Fine Arts Museum.

Mr. Tronic gave weekly lectures on sculpture, dance, painting, and drama, but many of these meetings were spent listening to music on LP albums which took in practically every recorded composer. Much time was devoted to the opera, Mr. Tronic's favorite topic. The group was most impressed with the works of Tschaikovsky, Verdi, Mozart, and Beethoven.

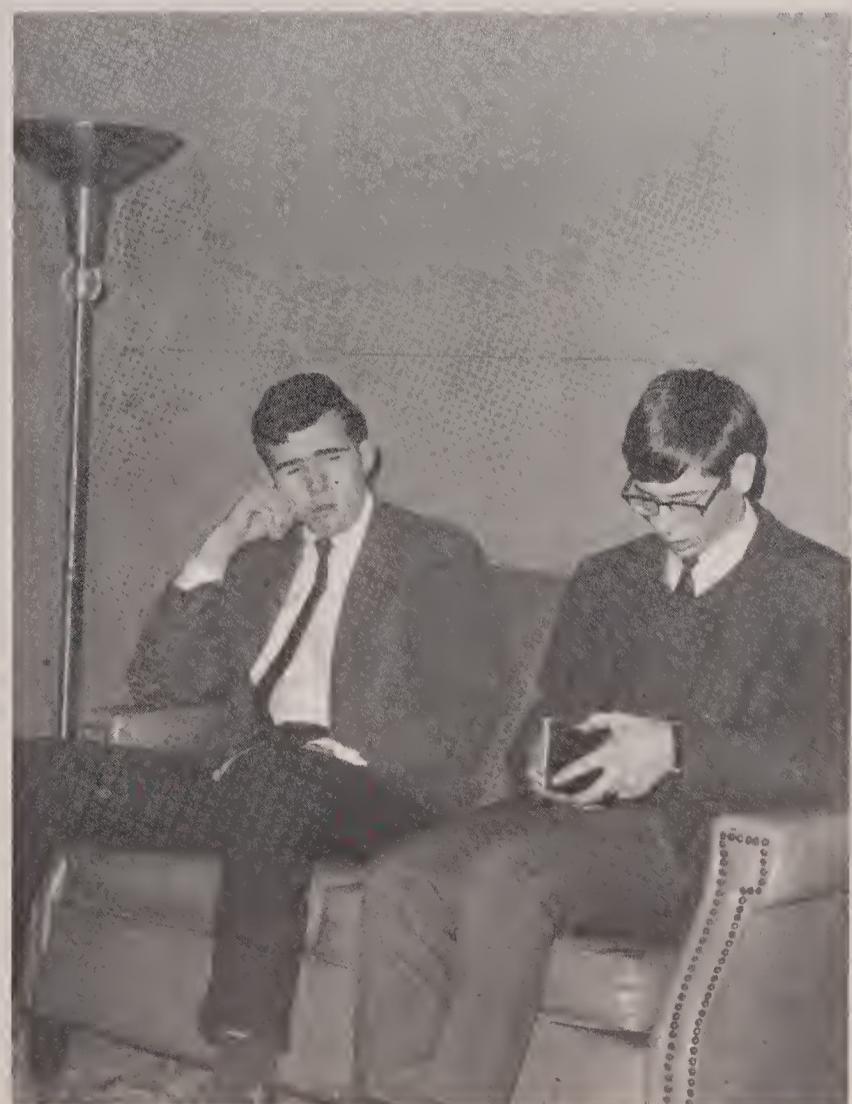

ALPHA RHO TAU

The Greek letters alpha, rho, and tau form the word "art". Alpha Rho Tau at Assumption is a group of thirteen seniors who have come together in an effort to better understand the fine arts.

Lectures and demonstrations, given by members of the faculty as well as by outside authorities, are used as preparation for the better appreciation of cultural events taking place at Herbert Auditorium, in Worcester, and in Boston. During this year, the society has studied ballet, painting, and music, both classical and contemporary.

Since the main objective of the participants is personal enlightenment, attendance at all functions is purely voluntary. It is the spirit and desire of the individuals which keeps the group functioning. One factor in this spirit is the guidance of Father George, the faculty moderator.

This type of society is not one which continues concretely from year to year. It is an ideal which must be reborn each fall in an entirely new group of seniors.

PARIS PAR ICI

Connu officiellement sous le nom de Paris Par Ici, le Club Français est ouvert à tous les étudiants qui s'intéressent à la culture française. Son but est d'encourager les étudiants à parler français et de les éveiller aux philosophies des grands penseurs que la France a connus. Les membres étudient les grands auteurs: Molière, Racine, et Corneille, mais cela sans oublier les auteurs contemporains comme Sartre et Claudel. Aussi discutent-ils de la politique et ses grands hommes: De Gaulle et le marché commun ou Johnson et la guerre du Vietnam.

Le père Yvon qui dirige le club organise parfois des sorties où les membres peuvent voir des films français ainsi que des pièces de théâtre.

L'année se termine par une randonnée en auto dont les finissants se souviendront longtemps. Les membres visitent des musées, des sites historiques et pour combler la journée, ils dînent dans un grand restaurant français de Boston.

En deux mots, ce club nous démontre que l'on peut s'enrichir intellectuellement tout en se divertissant.

BLAISE PASCAL CLUB

Adolescence is traditionally a time of self-discovery, a time to re-evaluate the tired mores and lifeless beliefs which men follow and which children imitate. It is fitting that such personal reflections find encouragement and direction through exposure to great philosophies, and that they gain perspective through open and personal discussions. For these reasons, and many others, the Blaise Pascal Club was organized by Father Gerard this year. The members meet weekly to comment and to expound upon various readings in the philosophies of Pascal and Teilhard de Chardin. The club is small, to facilitate discussion and to permit free, personal expression. Yet it is open to all who profess an interest in philosophy and who are willing to pursue this interest.

Father Gerard stresses the importance of a Christian philosophy of life in the personal goals and faith which direct our lives. He tries to help members of the club understand not only the philosophical notions but also the many ramifications which grow from an active acceptance and utilization of these ideas.

The Blaise Pascal Club is a much-needed addition to the extracurricular life at Assumption. It brings the platonic to a personal level of participation; it gives its members an idea of what it is to live one's beliefs.

MU ALPHA THETA

One of the traditional clubs at Assumption, Mu Alpha Theta endeavors to extend and to strengthen the student's interest and abilities in the field of mathematics. Through weekly gatherings and periodic "Math Meets" with other schools, the club members practice and perfect their abilities not only to compute problems but also to understand the "why's" and the "how's" of basic mathematical laws. For a number of years, Father Ildefons has been the moderator and an active source of inspiration for this club. He continues successfully in this capacity.

Among the more dedicated students are Sung Cherl Kim and Steve Diguette. In past years as well as in 1968, they have provided severe competition at "Math Meets" and have demonstrated sincere interest in the subject. However, they are not alone; students from all classes are invited to join and to participate in the club's activities.

All in all, Mu Alpha Theta must be considered one of the most active organizations on campus. It nicely complements the standard classroom activities of the curriculum with an informal yet vital dimension which adds depth and meaning to the subject it handles.

HISTORY CLUB

The History Club was initiated this year by a group of interested students and Mr. Robert Flagg. This club is different from the history clubs in the past in that there are no formal seminars or lectures. The History Club is mainly for those students who not only want to read about history but who also want to see the places and things that helped make the history they read about in their texts. History becomes more than just words and dates for the student. The club has visited such places as the Worcester Historical Society, Old Sturbridge Village, Plymouth Rock, the Salem Maritime Museum, the Prudential Building, and the Peabody Museum. Under the direction of Mr. Flagg and the trip guides, the students were able to get a first-hand explanation of the different places and things they had seen. Also, by being able to browse around the different sites by themselves, the students were able to have some interesting and rewarding afternoons. These trips were not only interesting for the students—they also helped them understand better the history course they were studying at the time.

YAF

Young Americans for Freedom is a national conservative organization comprising more than thirty thousand concerned Americans, most of whom belong to the 16-30 age group. It has over five hundred chapters coast-to-coast. The aims of YAF are to further the concepts and programs of responsible Conservatism through effective education and political action. YAF is not a political party nor is it an auxiliary to either the Republicans or Democrats. YAF is strongly anti-communist; it opposes any kind of excessive statism, be it socialism, nazism, or an oppressive extension of Federal bureaucracy in the United States. The membership of YAF condemns religious and racial bigotry as injurious to the honor of both the individual and the community.

The Douglas MacArthur chapter of YAF was founded at Assumption on December 1, 1966. The chapter's activities have constituted anti-communist and economic films and discussions, trips to Holy Cross and Boston, attendance at Regional Conferences and a National Convention, and work in the 1968 New Hampshire primary for Governor Reagan. Anyone in agreement with YAF's Conservative position may join.

FREEDOM'S HOUSE

In a community such as we have here at school, we must keep aware of the political and social forces which shape our contemporary world. Freedom's House is one such organization at Assumption through which this awareness is established. Freedom's House does not formally associate itself with specific political parties or philosophies; its doors are opened to any interested student, whether he calls himself a Democrat or Republican, a liberal or conservative. In essence, a thoroughly candid inter-play of ideas—whatever they may be—is encouraged.

The range of the topics discussed, encompassing both international and domestic issues, has been wide. Secretary of Defense McNamara's move to the World Bank, economic problems both at home and abroad, the war in Viet Nam, the draft, civil rights, the upcoming elections—these are a few of the prominent issues debated. The ideas brought forth in the debates have been as varied as the topics with which we concerned ourselves.

The atmosphere—intense but not heated—has provided the setting for a valuable exchange of ideas in many instances. This atmosphere has enabled the individual to adapt the presented ideas to his own philosophy in his own way.

SERVICE CORPS

The purpose of the Service Corps is to help those in need of help—those afflicted with disease, poverty, physical handicaps, old age—and to help them in a truly Christian spirit. The members of the Service Corps seek not only to receive constantly, but to give of themselves, to communicate, to relate. This helping—this giving—instills in every member a feeling of accomplishment and personal involvement. What else could give such a feeling of fulfillment as hearing a young “delinquent” sing a song about friendship? Countless examples such as this show Service Corps members what human nature is and what people are really like.

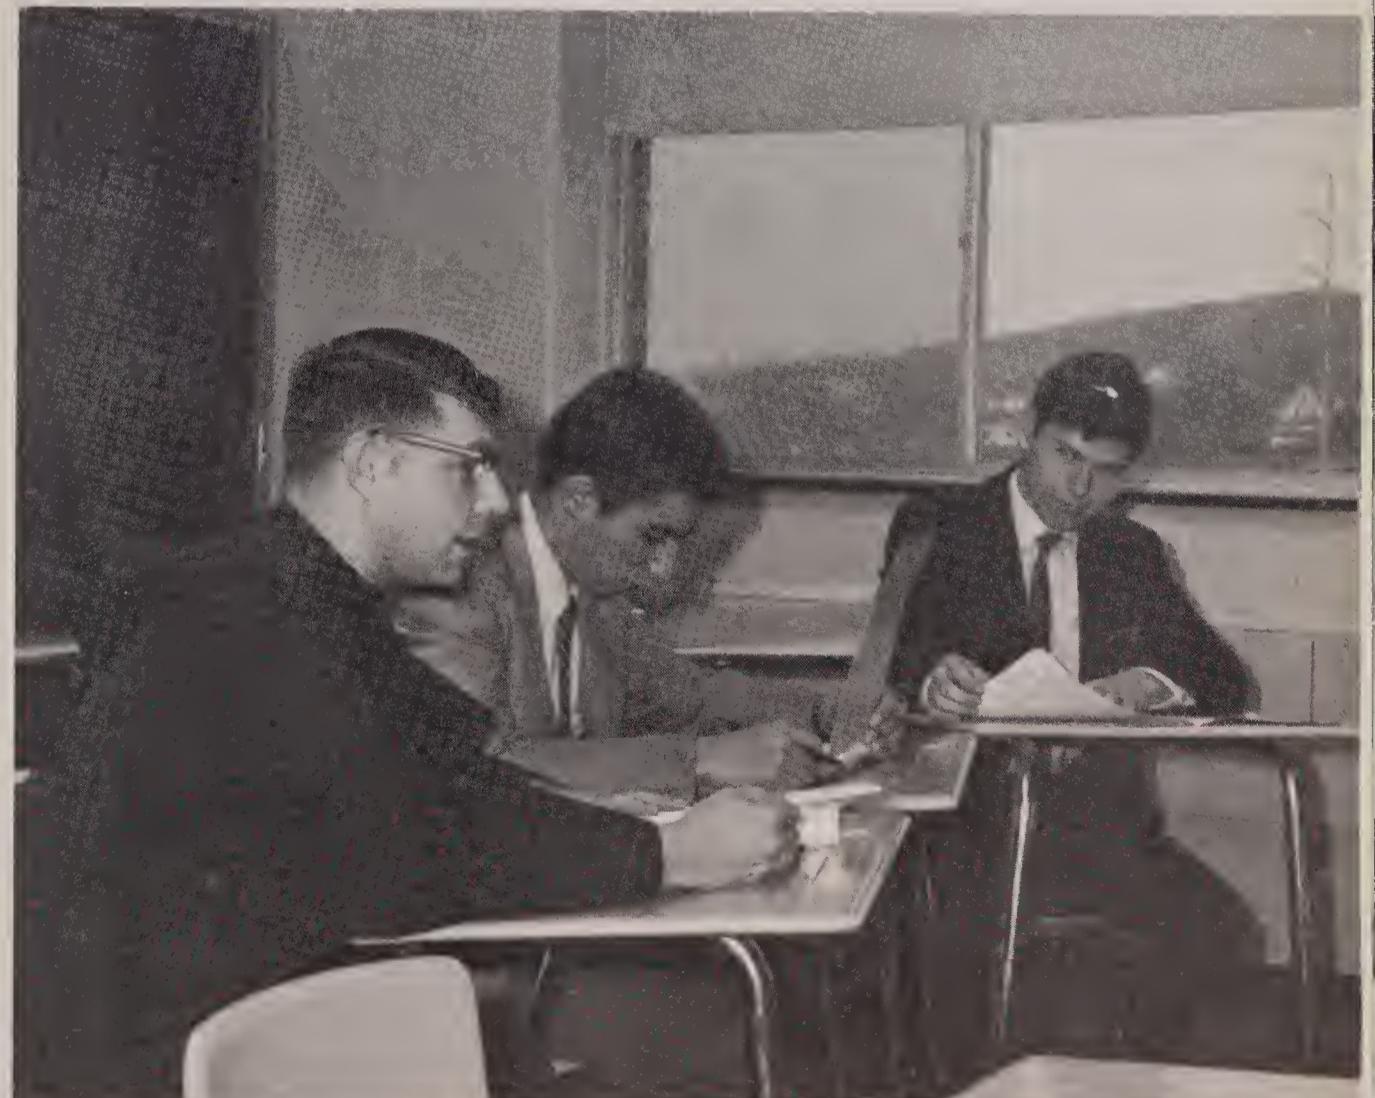

At Assumption, over fifty students participate in Service Corps programs. These programs are varied and widespread; they include working with boys at the Nazareth Home and John Augustus Hall as well as helping “The Little Sisters of the Assumption.” Another project which is currently being discussed is the possibility of working with the retarded children at Our Lady of Mercy School. The work which is done, for example, at John Augustus Hall is merely playing with the children (their ages range from eight to thirteen) at various sports. This may seem insignificant, but it shows them that there are people outside their small community who do care enough to share time with them.

In addition to these projects, weekly meetings were held by elected class representatives who discuss past, present, and future plans for the group. It is currently under the direction of Brother Richard Mandeville. The president of the group is Mario Santiago, a senior. The next level consists of team captains who meet once a month; they discuss any problems or ideas that their teams have encountered in visiting the various project sites. Finally, there is a meeting once a month of all Service Corps members. Business is discussed and usually a special feature is added. For example, one week a nun presented a movie concerning the problems and circumstances of social work. During another meeting a priest from Assumption College spoke of his experiences in Spanish and Negro sections of New York City during “the long, hot summer.”

Finally, the Service Corps sponsored a dance in March to raise money for the continued work of the group, thus assuring that future work will be meaningful, fulfilling, and valuable.

Y. C. S. (Young Christian Students), better known this year at Assumption as Action '68, is an active organization. To the members it is an experience—or an attempt—to become more Christ-like. But what does this mean? To a member it means quite a lot.

In the world he is an actor in a complex and mysterious society. At Assumption Prep he is an actor in a different society, though often still a complex and mysterious one. In the life of the school in all its aspects—one's awareness of God, academics, activities and personal growth—his role is to be a leader.

At the outset, a Y. C. S. member learns to want to improve himself and the world around him. That a Christian high school student begins thinking along the lines of self-improvement is a legitimate quest, since the more fully human we are, the closer we are to God. The more we become a true person—one who thinks and loves—the more we become Christ-like.

The Y. C. S. member wants to have pride in the school, and he wants his classmates to do the same. In weekly meetings and in summer training sessions, he learns to practice the three basic principles—observe, judge, and act. If he sees any problem in the school, he feels it his duty to have this problem corrected. In the weekly meetings, he consults with the other members in an attempt to gather facts and to judge the situation as a Christian. Then there is the action. The role of leadership in the member is only achieved to the degree that he acts. On one hand, his action might be a few choice words to a friend or the setting of an example for many to follow; on the other, he might help to sponsor certain long range projects—tutoring programs, folk concerts, group discussions, etc.—to help better any situation in the school. Still, his influence must be somehow felt. It is impossible to have a dead organization that sincerely desires to become Christ-like. We boast of being alive.

ORGANIZATIONS

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club is an informal organization for students interested in learning and playing the game. Though the club came into being just this year, much enthusiasm has been demonstrated by its members. Activities within the club consist of regular matches and tournaments which are held throughout the year. A reflection of the great interest of the members is the fact that absenteeism at the matches is almost nonexistent.

Participants find the game challenging. They therefore are in the process of planning to engage in a form of competition which will be new to them and which will more firmly establish their club in the school: inter-scholastic competition. The abilities of such players as Arnope Tantuvanich and co-chairmen Joe Marble and Paul Massaria, and the guidance of moderator Mr. Anthony St. Germain will indeed make this proposed move a reality.

STAMP CLUB

The Stamp Club was initiated at the beginning of this year by a group of enterprising freshmen and sophomores, and has since remained open to underclassmen. The Stamp Club provides interested collectors with an excellent opportunity to get together and trade their stamps. The objectives of this group are concerned with providing a means of obtaining new and rare stamps and to enable members to converse with people having the same interests. Some members insist that their reason for stamp collecting entails an investment for the future, yet the majority of philatelists look toward trading either as a hobby or a pleasure. Chairman Ron Duquette maintains that his members have a good opportunity to learn about foreign countries through the study of stamps. Needless to say, the value of stamp-collecting for the most part lies in the fact that this hobby gives the underclassmen a refreshing break from the routine—an opportunity for genuine relaxation.

EXPLORERS

Explorer Post 31 is a 95-boy organization chartered by the Boy Scouts of America. Now in its sixth year at Assumption, it has always maintained a substantial part of the student body in its enrollment. Since its origin, it has also fostered other clubs that have since branched off on their own.

This year especially has seen the post enter into several new areas. Among these have been the formation of the Rifle Club, a group chartered by the National Rifle Association; the Nipmuck Indian Dance Team, whose schedule has included a week-long engagement at Expo '67 and at numerous other week-end functions; the Assumption Prep Amateur Radio Club, a Ham Radio organization which does repair work and broadcasting; the Conservation Club, which is currently working under a government grant program; and lastly, the Ladies' Auxiliary, composed of mothers of post members and other women who donate their time towards helping the post raise money.

Besides these intra-post groups, the Explorer program at the school offers activities in swimming, lifesaving, carolling, boating, hiking, and camping. The latter is done extensively at Hebert Acres in Oakham. There the post has maintained and developed the school's property, donated by the Hebert family, while adding a rifle range, a dance team ring with bleachers, six organized campsites, and many bird and animal shelters. Programs in merit badge work and for religious achievement awards are also held. At the present, a retreat format is being touched up which will give the boys the benefit of discussing their faith in sessions with a natural setting.

Explorer trips of the past have included four canoe trips, a trip to Canada, and many excursions throughout New England and the East coast, including visits to the National Scout Office. Most have been overnight camping trips where the boys stayed in the state forests. Furthermore, last year two members of this group went as representatives to the World Scout Jamboree in Idaho.

Financing all these activities has necessitated different fund-raising plans. These projects involved selling 200 Christmas trees and authentic Indian art from the Far West. It was the money from projects of this sort that has enabled the Post to hold two dances this year and also to run other service functions.

As a result of these numerous goings-on, Post 31 has been the recipient of several National Camping Awards and of the Parent's Magazine Outstanding Youth Group Award. This is just testimony to the fine work that was and is being done under the auspices of Father Joseph Fredette.

RIFLE CLUB

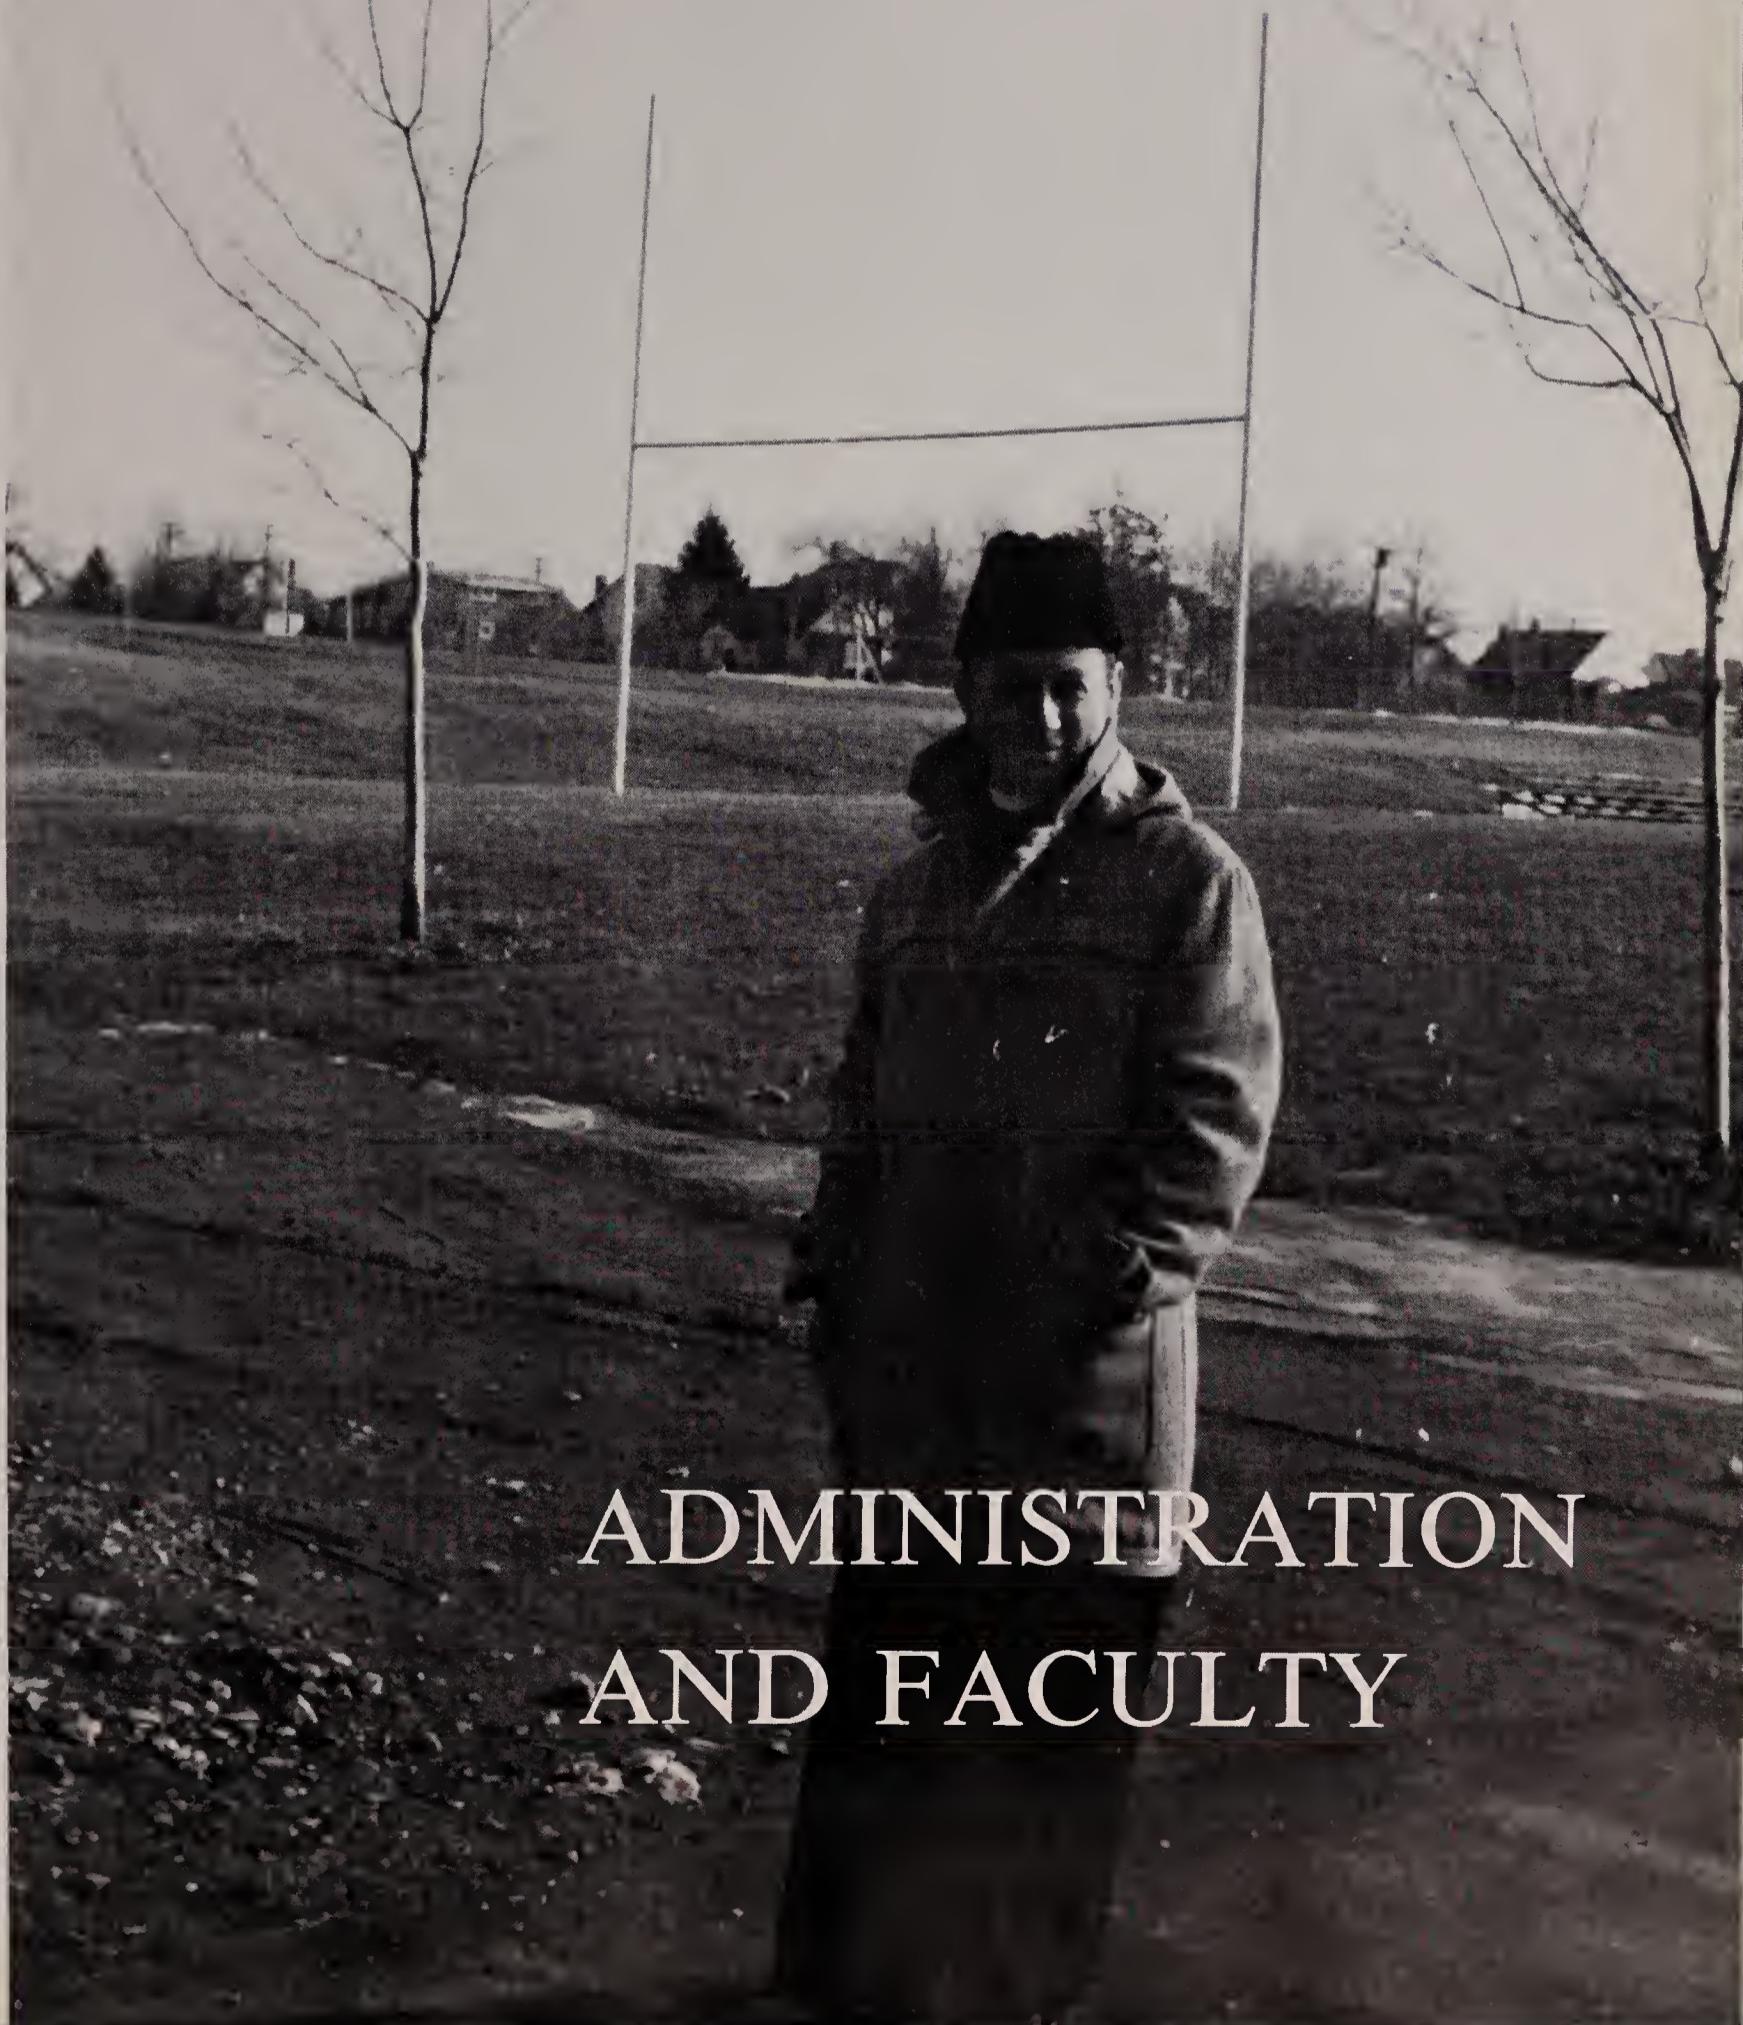

This year Assumption founded a new organization: the Rifle Club. It currently consists of fifteen members. Andrew Vikitset and Mike Mastrangelo lead the club as president and vice-president, while Andrew Quist serves as secretary-treasurer. The faculty advisor, Father Joseph Fredette, is assisted in his duties by instructors Mr. Bill Donne and Mr. James Malo.

Many of the members use their own rifles, the favorite being the Mossberg semi-target model 340-B. A practice range is provided for the club at Oakham, located nineteen miles from the campus. Meetings are held on campus, however, when a trip to Oakham does not prove feasible.

Still in its first year, the Rifle Club has already participated in the 1967 Massachusetts Rifle Championships, where Andrew Vikitset won the first place trophy.

SENIOR REPRESENTATIVES TO THE STUDENT-FACULTY SENATE

Dear Fr. O'Dwyer, Ever since I was a freshman, I had been looking forward to becoming a senior and now the opportunity to closely associate with you. Well, when I became a senior I was disappointed to learn that my class would never come.
We all miss you greatly. Thank you for making Assumption Prep what it is.

Daniel
Moynihan

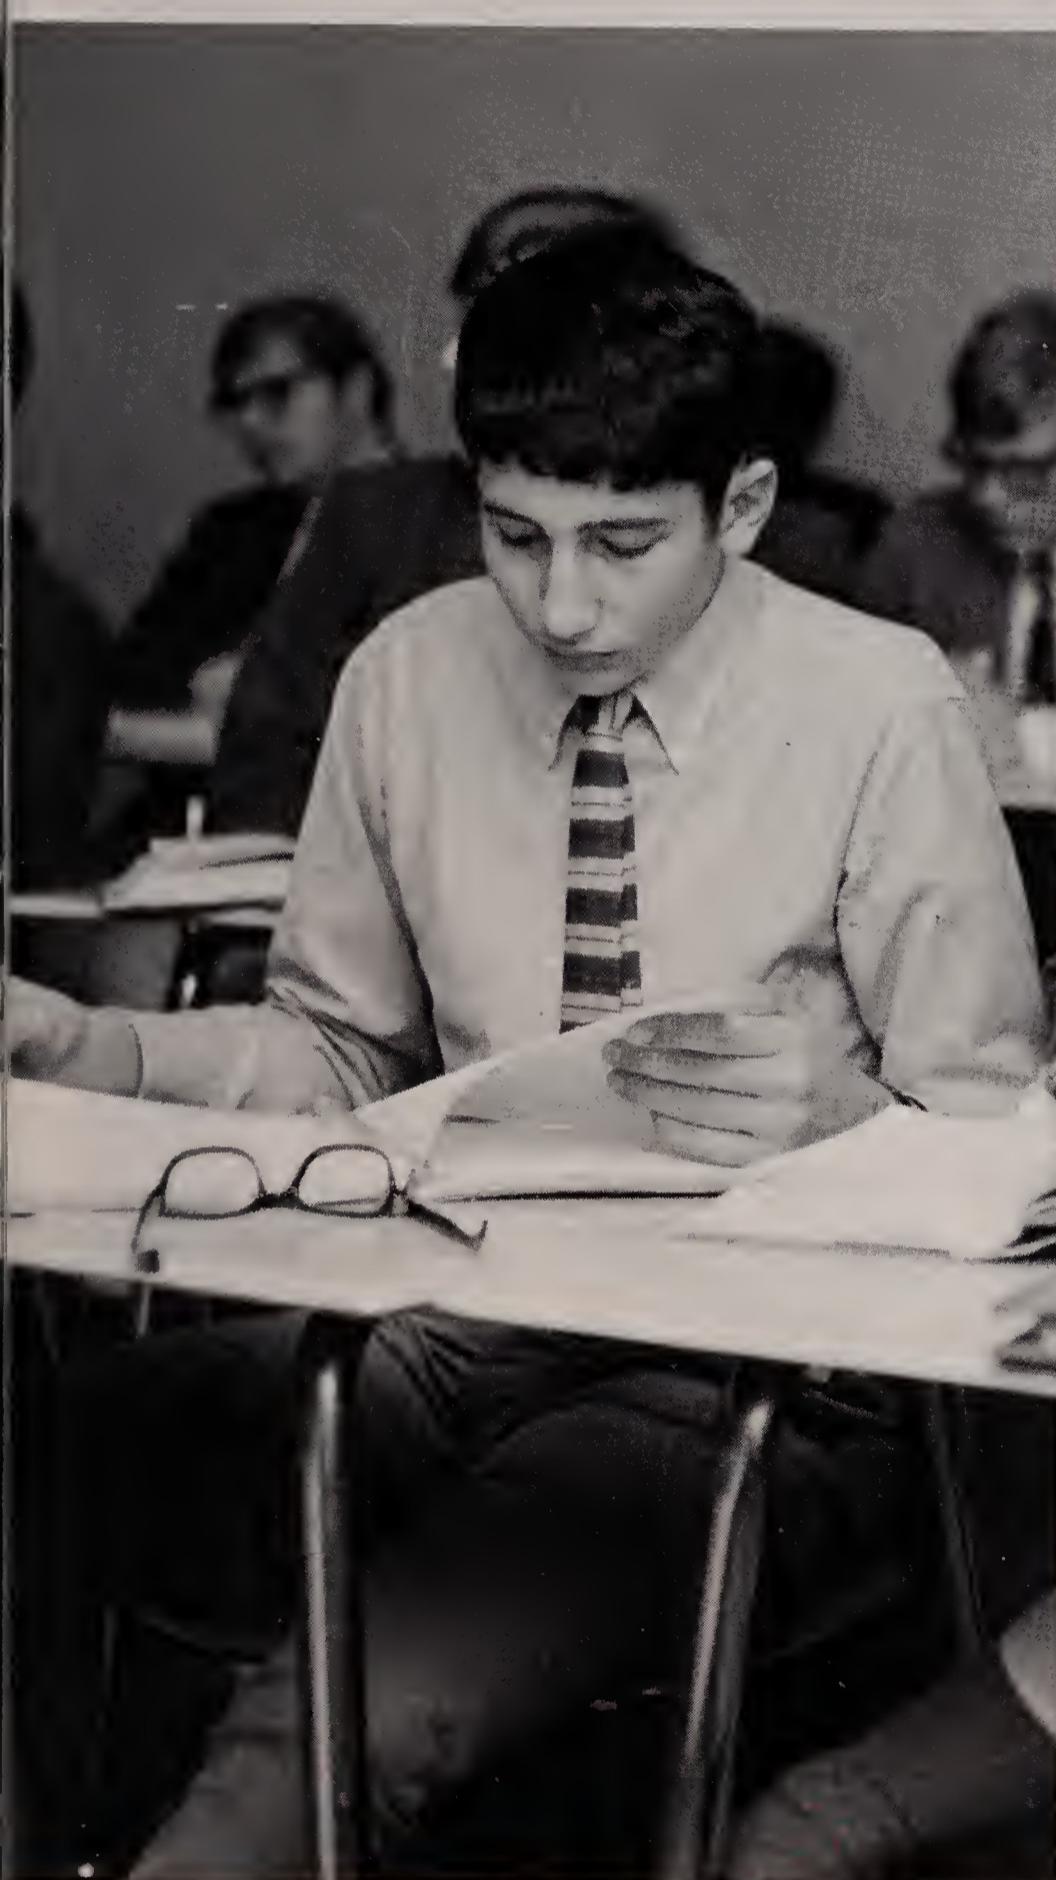

Stephen Sylvestro, Vice-President.

Gerard Wegemer, Senator.

The 1966 Memini called the class of 1969 the "best class on paper since the class of '66"; we tend to feel that they're the best class on paper since the class of '68 . . . In fact, this class is giving a lot to the school, and it hopefully realizes that it has even more to contribute in the near future. Its greatest contribution has been in the area of athletics. Dominique's value to the soccer team goes without saying. Gagnon was elected Most Valuable Player on the football team as a freshman. He and Morette has been the biggest assets for our team ever since. Not enough can be said about Cragan's shooting and Marians' dribbling on the basketball court, nor of Desmarais' speed in cross-country.

However, in addition to sports, the class is also greatly involved in the Student-Faculty Senate; Bret Devine usually takes the lead on this point. This class was instrumental in rejuvenating the Amateur Radio Club in its freshman year; Peter Mena has probably been most responsible for the progress made in this activity. The juniors have discovered that Assumption gets more and more academically demanding each year, that it really isn't impossible to make a varsity team, and that the senior year and colleges aren't too far away.

UNDERCLASSMEN

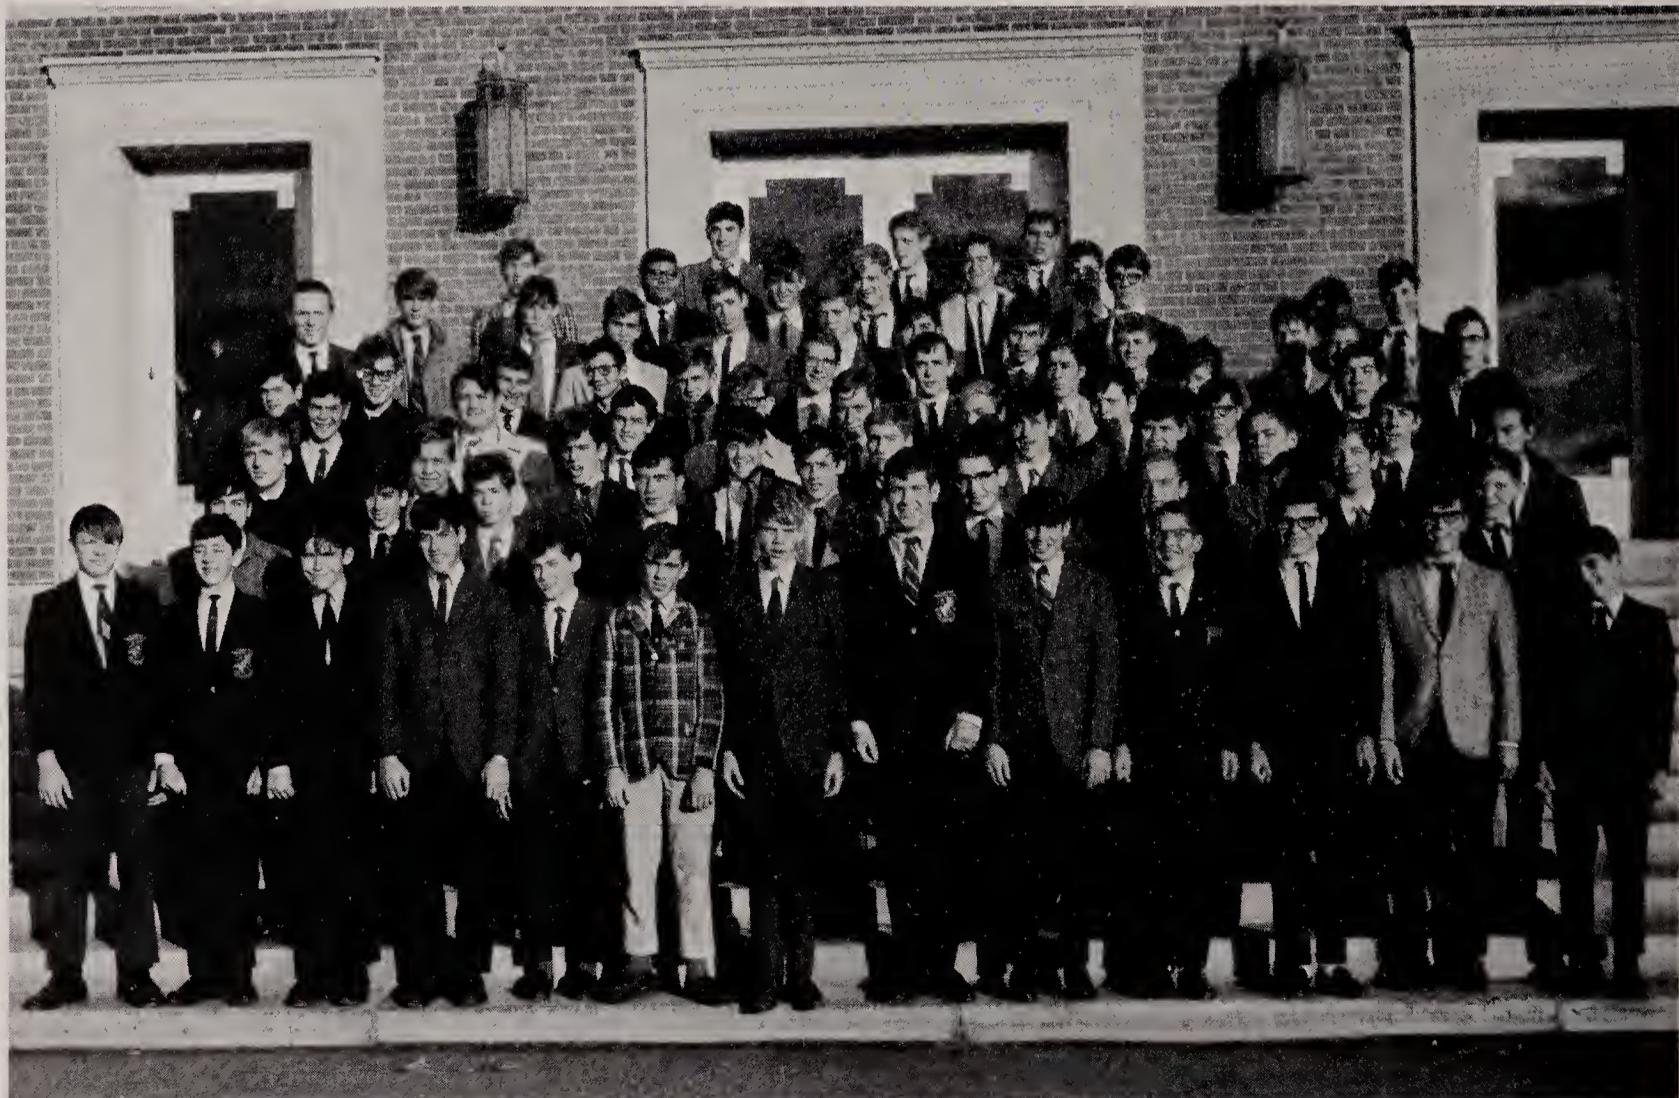

The sophomores seem to be everywhere, sometimes losing money in the Coke machine on the basement floor or in the telephone booths on the second floor.

Led by Charles Picard and Mike Courtney in the Senate, they are active in most sports and clubs. Joe May and Steve Bouffard were outstanding on the 1968 cross-country team and are invaluable potentials for next year's cross-country team. Nick Florescu scored goal after goal for our highly successful soccer team, and shows the potential of becoming Assumption's best all-time soccer player. Denis Cavan was a tremendous asset to the football team; he filled the quarterback slot on our hopeful '68 team. Richard Riley and Richard Mello were particular standouts on the basketball team. Mark Roddy shows particular potential in tennis.

Ron Duquette and Jaime Figueroa are active in nearly every club; Ron even took it on himself to start his own stamp club.

The class of 1970 discovered they have progressed from the naive freshmen to the sophisticated sophomores, and generally take pride in the fact that they finally have something to look back on. Yet, at the end of the year, they were actually looking ahead and discovering that becoming upperclassmen is going to be a big change.

This year's Freshman Class, the class of '71, found themselves a bit confused and lost during the first days of the school year. Everything was new and strange; everyone seemed hostile; all was bereft of the security which had been "home." During their first year at the Prep., they had to change themselves in many ways—they had to learn to live with other people; they had to learn to study at certain times of the day, to play sports at other times, and to get along by themselves at all times. They have adjusted, as other freshman classes have before them; they have learned to participate more and more in the life of the school. Eric Meza and Cris D'Elia, for example, have shown themselves able in the game of basketball. Robert Ferland and Thomas Loftus represent the class in the newly formed Student-Faculty Senate.

The Freshman Class has joined Assumption and has become a definite and distinctive part of it. Its members have much ahead of them; before they graduate, they will learn and mature a great deal.

Publishing a YEARBOOK

Is As Simple As

To the casual reader a yearbook is often simply an "album" of pictures with written text. Merely ink on paper . . . though nice to own and enjoy.

But to the staff and adviser the yearbook means much more. For yearbook work comprises a multitude of details: Layout, Art, Photography, Copy, Typography, Covers and Binding, (not to mention the small detail of money-raising). Highly technical and often time-consuming and a source of anxiety to a staff unless the publisher's representative is trained to give needed help and suggestions.

At American your publisher's representative is a member of the school's yearbook team. He is skilled in the many facets of yearbook work, having at his fingertips the answers to yearbook problems as well as a multitude of ideas. He is always there when you need him.

AFTERWORD

We have tried to make this edition of the Memini a representation of the school as well as a record of the year. The staff feels that the 1968 school year has brought more change to Assumption than any previous year. To capture the spirit of the changing Assumption, we have felt it necessary to alter some of the superfluous "traditions" embodied in past Meminis. Senior biographies, for example, were dropped because we felt they were too artificial and strained. There are also more senior portraits per page this year. The space gained from this move was added to the front section of the book--the thematic development which strives to represent accurately the moods and attitudes of Assumption students.

To correlate this new aura of life with the lessened formality of this edition, we have included many more photographs that are especially relevant to student life. Some of our best and most meaningful photography is in this section. To highlight the beauty of the campus, numerous landscape shots are scattered throughout the book.

Photography is but one aspect of the "new" Memini. As you may have noticed, the amount of literary work was also stepped up, especially in the Organizations section. All this change called for much hard work and co-operation. The staff bore the greatest burden; for this we thank them, especially our right-hand men: Craig Preston, Joe King, and Henry Lemaître. But we feel that we must also express special thanks to a few persons not on the staff. Mr. Brunelle, our faculty advisor, did much to help us in the formation of initial plans and in the successful realization of these plans. He did not serve alone in this capacity. Don Lendry, the representative of the American Yearbook Company, contributed expert advice on the many mechanical problems involved in publishing a yearbook and on the best ways to organize a book for the desired effect. Art MacEvoy of Loring's Studios gave us unlimited use of his facilities. These men played integral roles in the publication of this 1968 Memini. To them and to our staff we are grateful.

John Bolton*
